finally left. He denied an altercation occurring between them because "he took off." Deputy Bryant entered the residence, and requested her to come outside so he could speak with her regarding the incident. While Deputy Bryant spoke with her, she advised the following: When her ex-boyfriend showed up to her residence, she heard tell him, "you've got till the count of three otherwise you will be dead." reentered the residence, and yelled at her because she spoke with her ex-boyfriend. Deputy Bryant asked her if battered her or threatened her during the incident. She stated, "he did pull a gun on me, but it was empty." Deputy Bryant asked how did it make her feel when he displayed a firearm towards her, for which she stated, "scared for my fucking life." detailed the incident, which goes as followed: When returned to their residence after the initial argument between him and her ex-boyfriend, he confronted her about the incident. He paced back for forth inside their bedroom, and demanded the truth. She appolgized to him, so he left the bedroom. Shortly after, he returned to the bedroom, cocked a firearm and pointed it towards her. He demanded her to leave the residence, then their and signed a sworn written statement, which detailed the incident that occurred. Deputy Bryant then requested to step outside the residence so he could re interview him. Shortly after, Deputy Bryant read him his Constitutional Rights Warnings via an agency issued Miranda card. He acknowledged he understood his rights, waived them, and agreed to speak about the incident. While Deputy Bryant spoke with him, he advised the following:He grabbed his firearm before he left the residence to look for 's ex-boyfriend. He stated, "He almost made a bad decision." Shortly after, he returned to the residence with his firearm and empty magazine in his right pocket and a loaded magazine in his left pocket. When he entered his residence, he immediately walked towards his bedroom, and seen on the other side of the bed. He removed the firearm from his right pocket, inserted in a blank magazine, then "cocked" it, but never made any threatening remarks. entered the bedroom armed with a bat, and tried to push him towards the nightstand. He eventually showed and the firearm was not loaded, then placed it inside his nightstand. Throughout the incident, he continuously told to "get the fuck out." Deputy Bryant asked if he pointed the firearm at for which he responded, "It may pointed towards her," when he was pushed by admitted his actions were not appropriate, and were out anger. Based upon the statements made on scene by the involved parties, Deputy Bryant probable cause existed to charge with aggravated assault (domestic violence).

's actions were an intentional, unlawful threat by action to do violence to coupled with an apparent ability to do so, by removing a firearm from his pocket, inserting a magazine, then cocking it forwards, which created a well-founded fear in her that such violence was imminent. was enraged after 's ex-boyfriend showed up to their residence after she lied to him about no longer speaking with him. He got into a verbal altercation with sex-boyfriend outside, then re-entered his residence. After 's ex-boyfriend left, he grabbed his firearm, and left his residence. Shortly after he realized "he almost made a bad decision", so he returned to his residence, entered the bedroom, and seen across the bedroom. He removed his black Glock handgun from his right pocket, inserted in a magazine, and cocked it forwards, which caused a well founded fear in felt it was necessary to get involved, so he pushed towards the nightstand, and told him to put the firearm away. After the competition of the appropriate paperwork, was transported to the Volusia County Branch Jail. Due to the nature of this incident a Risk Protection Order (RPO) was completed by Deputy Bryant. It should be noted, the Department of Children Families (DCF) and Director Quann were forwarded a copy of this report for review.
