Course #: 2025-001H-004

Overview

This training is designed to equip law enforcement and corrections personnel with practical strategies to foster, build, and sustain positive relationships within the community through reciprocal trust and mutual respect. Additionally, the training will explore the impact of perceptions and attitudes on law enforcement and community relations. The course will also introduce strategies to overcome negative perceptions and attitudes about the police and the community through positive engagement and interactions.

Objectives

- Critically assess perceptions and attitudes of law enforcement and community residents.
- Identify strategies to create positive perceptions, attitudes, and interactions between law enforcement and community residents.
- Learn strategies to decrease misunderstandings fueled by social media and increase positive interactions between law enforcement and the community.
- Develop strategies to establish and sustain partnerships with local community-based organizations.
- Provide effective community engagement strategies to enhance law enforcement personnel's ability to prevent negative community interactions and/or events.
